Soft Performance Due to Soft Seasonality; Upgrade to BUY on Healthy Export Prospects and Attractive Valuation

What are the key highlights of 1QFY26 results?

⇒ Revenue grew by 2.9% YoY (down 10% QoQ) to Rs5,733mn, while PAT fell by 1.4% YoY (down 9% QoQ) to Rs457mn, impacted by partial commencement of plants.

⇒ EBIDTA grew by 2% YoY (down 8% QoQ) to Rs763mn, while EBIDTA margin fell by 12bps YoY (up 20bps QoQ), led by higher employee expense (up 11% YoY).

⇑ Revenue from new market grew by 11% YoY (achieving record quarterly contribution of 25%), while revenue from new product grew by a steady 5% YoY (47% contribution) nearer to Lakhya-50 target of 50%.

⇓ New Indore/U-bolt and suspension capacity began incurring depreciation before full revenue contribution, which impacted profitability (first meaningful supplies start from July).

⇑ European export shipments and several new-product ramps are slated to contribute from 2QFY26 onwards.

What is our view on the stock considering 1QFY26 results and other factors?

We continue to remain positive on Jamna Auto despite muted performance, as the quarter was weaker QoQ due to industry seasonality and partial commissioning of plants (depreciation up ~20% YoY). Notably, improved product-mix lifted gross margin (GPM 37.6%) and aided absolute profitability to remain resilient. The management is fast-tracking the Lakshya 50XT roadmap i.e., Adityapur (parabolic), Indore (U-bolt/multi-product), integrated suspension plant, and aftermarket/exports (Yamuna Nagar/Hosur). A 3-year European export pact for conventional and parabolic springs and U-bolts is a key development during the quarter, validating quality and ensuring export growth. On the flip side, LOI-order conversion, ramp timelines and timing of pass-through of higher steel cost are the near-term risks. With a strong balance sheet and improving mix, FY26 is a transition year with clearer upside in FY27. Thus, we change our rating on Jamna Auto Industries to BUY (from ADD earlier) with marginally revised Target Price of Rs106 (from Rs107 earlier), valuing the stock at 18x of FY27E EPS.
