R Systems (RSYS IN) reported healthy sequential revenue growth of 11.3% QoQ in 4QCY25, ahead of our estimate of 10.1%, driven by broad-based traction across verticals and geographies. In 4Q, demand remained resilient, with management indicating a transition from AI experimentation in CY25 to production-scale deployments in CY26, supporting larger deal sizes and deeper enterprise adoption. RSYS reported trailing 12-month ACV bookings of USD 76mn (net new and expansion only), highlighting healthy deal momentum and improved growth visibility. AI-led work now contributes ~27-30% of revenue, with Optima AI driving 30-35% productivity gains and widespread internal adoption. Novigo contributed ~1.5 months in 4Q, with management expecting ~100 bps structural margin uplift over time, while sustaining EBITDA margins at ~17% despite continued AI investments. We have introduced CY27E estimates and revised our USD revenue growth assumptions upward, now building in a 16.5% CAGR over CY25-27E versus 7.2% over CY24-26E earlier. We have also raised our CY26E EBITDA margin estimate by 36 bps, reflecting improved operating leverage. However, our CY26E EPS estimate has been reduced by 4.7%, primarily due to higher interest costs and lower other income. We reiterate BUY with a revised target price of Rs 501 (Rs 491 earlier), valuing the company at a revised 23x CY27E EPS (vs 27x CY26E EPS earlier). Key risks: weaker client budgets, slower scale-up of new platforms like OptimaAI, and delays in turning recent acquisitions margin-accretive.

Robust revenue performance led by deal wins and Novigo impact

For 4QCY25, RSYS reported revenue growth of 11.3% QoQ (9.3% in USD terms) and 23.6% YoY, with all major geographies reporting sequential expansion. Americas (~70% of revenue), Europe, and APAC grew steadily, while MEA rose 663% QoQ due to Novigo acquisition impact. RSYS disclosed USD 76mn in trailing 12-month ACV bookings for the first time, covering only net new and expansion deals (excluding renewals and Novigo), indicating healthy underlying deal momentum and improved organic growth visibility.

EBITDA margin improved

EBITDA for the quarter stood at Rs 1,017mn, up 20.5% QoQ, with margins at 18.3% versus 16.9% in 3Q, supported by operating leverage from volume growth, favorable currency movement driven by rupee depreciation, and contribution from acquisitions. This was partially offset by the impact of lower billing days during the quarter and annual salary increments, which moderated the overall margin expansion. Management expects margin momentum to sustain in CY26, supported by operating leverage, cost optimization, and a richer mix of AI-led, higher-value projects.

Valuation & outlook

RSYS currently trades at 17.9x one-year forward P/E, at an 8% discount to its ten-year historical average. We have revised our target multiple to 23x CY27E EPS (vs 27x CY26E EPS earlier) to arrive at a target price of Rs 501 per share (Rs. 491 earlier). The company continues to gain from stronger growth visibility under Blackstone's ownership, supported by structural demand drivers, improving margin trajectory, and a healthier revenue mix that sustains high return ratios (~30% RoCE). Maintain BUY.

Investors are advised to refer disclosures made at the end of the research report.

What do 4QCY25 numbers indicate?

- RSYS' 4QCY25 revenue growth is as follows: a) +9.3% QoQ and +17.6% YoY at USD 62.5mn in dollar terms, and b) +11.3% QoQ and +23.6% YoY at Rs 5,551mn.
- In USD revenue terms, Americas, Europe, APAC (Asia Pacific), and MEA (Middle East Asia) markets (all geographies) grew by 2%, 23.1%, 18%, and 663% QoQ, respectively.
- EBITDA for 4QCY25 came in at Rs 1,017mn, up 27% YoY. EBITDA margin was 18.3%, expanding 140 bps QoQ due to volume growth, rupee depreciation, and acquisition impact, partially offset by lower billing days and salary increments.
- PAT margins came in at 6.6% (vs our expectations of 8.9%) and EPS fell by 6.6% on a YoY basis. The miss on PAT margins is mainly due to higher interest and tax expenses.
- 4Q DSO (days sales outstanding) at 73 compared with 76 in 3Q.
- Currently, the company has 5,359 employees after net addition of 643 employees. The company reported 130bps QoQ drop in utilization, which stood at 81%.
- The top 10 clients contributed 26.9% of revenue, with the largest client accounting for 5.9%. Contributions from the top 3 and top 5 clients were 13.2% and 18.2%, respectively, remaining largely flat sequentially.
- For CY25, RSYS reported a revenue growth of 12.4% and EBITDA/PAT margins of 17.5%/9.5% which grew by 80bps/190bps sequentially.

Earnings call highlights

- Management emphasized that CY25 was largely a year of AI experimentation for clients, whereas CY26 is expected to transition into production-scale deployments with larger ticket sizes and deeper enterprise embedding of AI use cases.
- RSYS disclosed trailing 12-month ACV bookings of USD 76mn for the first time, covering only net new and expansion wins while excluding renewals and Novigo, which signals healthy underlying deal momentum and improved visibility into organic growth.
- Novigo acquisition closed in mid-November and contributed only about 1.5 months in 4Q, with current revenue impact still modest. Management reiterated that Novigo operates at higher EBITDA margins than standalone RSYS and expects ~100bps structural margin uplift over time from integration and synergy benefits.
- Optima AI remains a key competitive differentiator, enabling agentic orchestration, automation across SDLC (Software Development Life Cycle) stages and productivity improvements of ~30–35% across project lifecycle, particularly higher in testing and early-stage engineering.
- AI-led revenue contribution has scaled meaningfully, with ~27–30% of revenue either directly delivering AI mandates or using AI in execution, while internal adoption of Optima AI tools has reached ~80% of employees and ~40% of active projects.
- Enterprise modernization and tech debt reduction are emerging as strong multi-year demand themes, with AI making legacy code conversion and system integration faster and more commercially viable than before.

- AI-centric software vendors launching advanced models are viewed more as opportunity than structural risk, as enterprises still require implementation, integration, AI-ops governance and human-in-the-loop supervision to operationalize these tools effectively.
- Management indicated confidence in sustaining EBITDA margins in the ~17% range for CY26 while continuing to invest aggressively in AI capability building, training, GPU infrastructure and platform development.
- GCCs continue to expand and increasingly seek AI enablement partnerships rather than pure staffing models, creating incremental opportunities for outcome-led engagements.
- Four AI-driven opportunity segments were identified; 1) traditional product and platform tech companies embedding AI into legacy architectures; 2) vertical SaaS players building domain-specific AI layers; 3) AI-native startups developing new AI-first products; and 4) large enterprises modernizing legacy systems and reducing tech debt using AI accelerators.
- Revenue generated from portfolio companies owned by Blackstone and other PE firms now accounts for roughly 20% of total revenue, reflecting increasing traction within the PE-backed client segment.
- Management highlighted four key deal wins: 1) a global SaaS platform for subscription-driven businesses engaged RSYS to modernize its core platform and accelerate customer onboarding, supporting its transition from a SaaS solution to an AI-powered platform, 2) a leading global children's entertainment company partnered with RSYS to modernize its B2B commerce ecosystem through Salesforce, transforming end-to-end sales and order management processes, 3) a Tier 1 Austrian telecom provider engaged RSYS to advance cloud-native readiness and security capabilities, and 4) a leading Saudi mining company selected RSYS to implement a next-generation consolidated data platform.
